THAT DIVORCE CASE

More Testimony About the Troubles of Mr. and Mrs. Nisbett.

SHE BOUGHT HER OWN TROUSSEAU

A Suit by Big Iron Firms for the Graff Mill Property.

THEY MAKE SERIOUS ALLEGATIONS.

There was another hearing in the Nisbett divorce suit yesterday. The evidence is interesting, owing to the prominence of the parties interested. There has arisen more litigation over the property of the defunct firm of Graff, Bennett & Co. Court news is further developments. This morning he generally noted.

There was another hearing yesterday in the Nisbett divorce case before Commissioner C. E. Cornelius, at which there was some pretty sharp cross firing, Mr. Nisbett playing lawyer himself, bringing out some new features with rather startling distinctness, for the time being. The case is enhanced in interest on account of the number of official people incidentally connected with it.

Mrs. Nisbett continued her testimony. The impression having gained ground from previous representations that Mr. Nisbett had bought the wedding tronsseau, Mrs. Nisbett corrected it by testifying that she paid for it out of $300 she had in the Diamond National Bank, part of which an aunt had given her, and the remainder of which she had earned by teaching music at Curry Institute and singing in Father Brennan's church. She stated that when she left Mr. Nisbett she only took four dresses with her. As the wedding gift of books by H. I. Gourley was claimed by libellant along with many other claimed by libellant along with many other wedding gifts to have been given to him by his friends, a card purporting to have been at-tached to Prof. Gourley's gift was exhibited, and Mrs. Nisbett denied that it was the original, leaving the question to broad infer-once. The card exhibited yesterday bore the inscription "W. W. Nisbett," but Mrs. Nisbett said the inscription on the genuine card was di-rected "Miss Virginia Wooster," and was ad-dressed in care of her father. Next it came the turn of Mr. Nisbett and his attorney to get in some fine work on one of Mrs. Nisbett's lawyers, J. M. Shields, Esq. Mr. Stillwagen covertly conveyed the idea that an attempt had been made to squeeze Mr. Nisbett out of $4,000, and that while he toyed with a out of $4,000, and that while he toyed with a proposition submitted, he was quietly laying his ropes, and so came in first with divorce proceedings, as it were the tiger hunting the hunters. Mr. Nisbett took a hand in asking Mr. Shields questions, and between his knowledge of some of its special features and Mr. Still-wagen's coaching, he succeeded in getting very cless to bed-rock at times. It seemed that negotiations had proceeded so far that they had been submitted in type-written copy, but Mr. Nisbett succeeded in playing with Mr. Shields until his (Nisbett's) side of the case was Shields until his (Nisbett's) side of the case was worked up, when he filed the papers in the suit and the contract became waste paper.

GRAFF, RENNETT & CO.

More Litigation Commenced Over the Late

Firm's Property. A bill in equity was filed yesterday by the Cherry Vatley Iron Works, A. Wilcox & Co., First National Bank of Pittsburg, Allegheny National Bank, Chess, Cook & Co., McIntosh, Hemphill & Co., Howard Hartley and the A. Garrison Foundry Company, creditors of the firm of Graff, Bennett & Co., against James Pickand, J. W. Friend and J. M. Bailey, trussees for certain of the creditors and Graff, Benhett & Co. The bill contains the same allegations as were made in the exceptions to unt of the Hon. J. H. Bailey, assignee of Graff Bennett & Co. It is stated that the property of Graff, Bennett & Co., including the Millvale and Clinton Iron Mills, was sold by Assignee Bailey to Pickand, Friend and J. M. ey for $25,000. That Pickand, Friend and ing them money and other considera-tions. As a consequence they were the only bidders, and obtained the property at their own price. The proceedings, it is alleged were a fraud on the other creditors. The property was worth at least $500,000, and had the bidding been free would have brought at least $200,000. All the remaining property of the firm in the hands of the assirper and the proceeds from what has the assignee, and the proceeds from what has been sold, will not pay more than 20 per cent of the claims of the creditors. The assignee, J. H. Bailey, was asked to commence proceedings to recover the property for the benefit of all the parties interested, but he the benefit of all the parties interested, but he refused. They state that he is a brother of J. M. Bailey, one of the purchasers. They now ask the court to declare the sale and deed of the property to be null and void, to appoint a receiver to take possession of it and that Pickanid, Friend and Bailey be compelled to concey the property to them. Also that an injunction be issued restraining them from selling or disposing of any of the property. ing or disposing of any of the property.

A reargument was had before Judge Ewing esterday, in the stated case of Matilda G. McConnell against Reese Lindsay. The question raised is on a clause in the will of Mrs. Evaline Gross and involves the title of a piece of property in the Twentieth ward which was of property in the Twentieth ward which was left to Mrs. McConnell. The clause in the will giving the property to Mrs. McConnell says: "And it is my will that said Matilda G. McConnell shall hold the property wholly for her own use and benefit and subject to her control." The guestion now submitted is whether the will vests Mrs. McConnell with a title in fee simple or only as a use trust. Mrs. McConnell desires to sell to Mr. Lindsay, hence the submission of the question to Court. The case was argued by Major A. M. Brown, D. T. Watson and J. A. Evans.

VANDALS WITH MOCK MODESTY Ruin a Costly Marble Statue of the Famous

Venus de Medici. ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. NORWALK, CONN., October 1. - A week or two ago Mr. R. A. Woodward, presented to Justice of the Peace Andrew Selleck a handsome marble statue of the Venus de Medici, which Mr. Woodward imported from Italy some years ago, at an expense of about $500. Justice Selleck did not know exactly what to do with the statue, but he finally took the advice of a friend and placed it on the velvety lawn in front of his pretty residence on Mott avenue. To say that the statue The General News of the County Courts Briefly created a sensation is to put it mildly. The first frost of the season came that night, and when morning dawned Mr. Selleck was horrified to discover that someone had taken pity on poor Venus and had covered her nakedness with a red flannel petticoat and a plaid shawl.

Mr. Selleck confiscated the garments, and left the statue on the lawn to await ing the night, for her hands and portions of her body were smeared with red paint. Justice Selleck used turpentine in a vain attempt to remove the paint, but the oil has penetrated the marble, and it is feared that the statue is ruined beyond repair. To-day Mr. Selleck ordered a carpenter to build a substantial box around the statue, for the double purpose of sheltering it from the rude gaze of the public and keeping off vandals armed with red petticoats and paint brush shoes.

NO REST IN THE GRAVE,

A Lively War Being Raised Over the Acts of a Man Now Dead.

PRPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. RICHMOND, VA., October 1. - Although Maurice B. Flynn is dead he is raising the liveliest kind of a war in Richmond. The troubles about the electric railway were opened up to-day in a startling manner. Some of the dead man's former business associates have made serious charges against him, and he seems to have left no friend to defend his memory now. His widow has been summoned to appear to-morrow, to protect the interests he left her. Captain John S. Wise represents Messrs. Henry Steers, Thornton N. Motley and the Sprague Electric Motor Company, and Mr. Robert Payne, of New York, representing Martin, assignee of Guy C. Hotchkiss, Field & Co., arrived in the city to-day, and this morning went before the Chancery Court and asked for the appointment of a receiver of the Richmond Union Electric Passenger Railway Company; also for the appointment of a receiver to take charge of the Richmond

City Passenger Railway.
Mr. Payne also applied for an injunction to restrain Mrs. Flynn or her representatives from transferring any bonds or stocks of My disease (psoriasis) first broke out on my left check, spreading across my nose, and almost covering my face. It ran into my eyes, and the physician was afraid I would lose my eyesight altogether. It spread all over my head, and my hair all fell out, until I was entirely baldheaded; it then broke out on my arms and shoulders, until my arms were just one sore. It covered my entire body, my face, head and shoulders being the worst. The white scabs fell constantly from my head, shoulders and arms; the skin would thicken and be red and very itchy, and would crack and bleed if arms; the skin would thicken and be red and very itchy, and would crack and bleed if stratched. I was almost curred; and when I had used six bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT and one box of CUTICURA, and one cake of CUTICURA SOAP, I was cured of the dreadful disease from which I had suffered for five years.
